

What are your drives, fantasies or confusions about sex?

As a teenager it is normal for us to have different kinds of fantasies, as we all grew up in different situations and some of us tend to have more experiences than others. Probably one of my confusions about this topic would be with regards to the reason as to why some teenagers are more inclined of being active. Being active in a sense that they have multiple partners and compared to other teenagers do it more often than them. This kind of situation is not limited to teenagers who are less fortunate and have nothing better to do but also to people who are financially gifted with their basic necessities satisfied. For me it doesn't make sense to have multiple partners and eventually have the risk of carrying STDs for the partner that you really love. In terms of drives and fantasies, I am still unsure about my preferences since I think more experience would be needed in order to fully define it. The experiences do not need to be an instance of intercourse but more of relationships and trying out which one works. Having multiple relationships is also a bad thing but, in a sense, could help you gain a lot of experience, for me I prefer having a few long lasting ones, since if there are problems I like to solve them with my partner and not just leave them because the situation is no longer good.

What or who are the influences in your life that shaped your idea about sex. Explain how these influences shaped your sexual self

Probably one of the things that influences my life about my idea regarding sex would be my education. I studied in a Co-ed school while I was in my primary years, and switched to a school which is exclusive for boys from grade school to senior high school. Naturally we expect that people from these kinds of schools would not have experience on these kinds of topics. It is unfortunate that it is not always the case since most of the time relationships between opposite gender is not the only thing that exist in schools. These kinds of relationships become a topic on the whole school and sometimes you just want to take a break from it. While taking a break you also find another person from another school which is exclusive for girls and get along with her. Sometimes the both of you fight but eventually solve these problems later on. This simple interaction with the opposite gender gives you an idea on what actually happens outside the realm of what our teachers explain regarding sex. Even the teachers themselves may not have experience about it and so as the students we have this craving for knowing what it actually is. Eventually more of this kind of relationship comes to your life and more experience is gathered which defines your preferences more as you also solve problems with your partner.
